Self-Regulation & Quality in the Legal Profession

LISBON

OCTOBER 24th-26th, 2019

Programme including Commissions Meetings, welcome reception, Congress, Gala dinner and General Assembly

Joint Conference CCBE-FBE

The conference will be an opportunity to remind participants of the role and importance of self-regulation for the independence of the legal profession and to discuss the interplay between regulation and quality within the profession:

- ◆ How to guarantee high quality legal services? How to protect and best serve their interests? How to meet their legal needs while ensuring appropriate rules?

The Conference will particularly examine the recently adopted directive 2018/958 on a proportionality test before adoption of new professional rules and what its implementation would mean for the legal profession in Europe:

- ◆ How to guarantee the independence of lawyers and ensure the adequate response of bars and law societies in protecting and defending citizens? To what extent would the role of bars and law societies be impacted and the landscape of lawyers' rules be changed?

The discussions will bring insights from different perspectives (bars associations, legal professionals, European institutions, academics, consumers, etc.) on the way to best respond to the legal needs of citizens and give better access to justice for everyone.
